Rec Center Is Now Open

The Campus Center for Recreational Services has become a reality in time for the summer months. Under the direction of Student Activities Director Jim Meier, the Center will supply a wide variety of recreational equipment for the university community.

Last year the Center was funded through student fees. In addition to the $2,000 allocated last year, the Student Senate this year made a separate allowance of $1400 for the Center.

Most of the equipment does not require a rental fee and can be checked out for 24-hour periods. A $.50 late fee is assessed for every 24-hour period or part of a 24-hour period that an item is overdue.

A few items do require a rental fee, however, the charge is a small one. Few places around Omaha will rent a toboggan for a 24-hour period at the price of $1.00.

Though faculty and staff are invited to use the equipment, students will maintain first priority. The only thing necessary is a valid UNO I.D. card and one other form of valid identification.

The Center will hold the UNO I.D. until the equipment has been returned in satisfactory condition.

Charge It!

The age of the credit card has arrived at UNO. The cashier's office, located in the Administration Building, recently finalized plans that will allow students to charge their tuition through BankAmericard or Mastercharge. Students can take advantage of the service beginning with the first summer session, 1973, according to George Verootis, head cashier. Tuition, fees, and books can all be charged.

The idea is not entirely new. Students on the Lincoln campus have had the service since the spring semester of 1972. The UNO Medical Center instituted their credit plans March 1, 1973.

"It's another move in the area of student services," said Verootis. The cashier's office introduced a delayed tuition plan in the fall of 1972.

Experts On Aging Speak

Three nationally known individuals active in the movement for rights for senior citizens were brought to the UNO campus May 22, 1973 by the Gerontology Department of the School of Public Affairs and Community Services (SPACS).

The speakers highlighted the three-day "Senior Citizens Celebration Days," held May 21-23, 1973. Nelson Cruikshank, president of the National Council of Senior Citizens, Bernard Nash, executive director of the American Association of Retired Persons and the National Retired Teachers Association, and Dr. Arthur Flemming, recently named U.S. commissioner for the aging, addressed approximately 100 persons in the Recital Hall of the Performing Arts Center.

Cruikshank reviewed legislative action since the 1971 White House Conference on Aging. He recounted the recommendations made by the Conference and compared the resulting action taken by the Nixon Administration. Cruikshank charged that the Nixon Administration had "double-crossed" the elderly. Citing the recommendation made by the White House Conference that a fixed proportion of government funds be earmarked for housing for the elderly, Cruikshank noted that the Nixon response was a complete moratorium on all housing. He noted that the one thing Nixon had made "perfectly clear" was that senior citizens would not avoid being shortchanged by devoting their time to fishing, playing cards, or painting china. He called for the Omaha elderly to play a larger part in the growing wave of militancy among senior citizens.

Bernard Nash recounted the achievements made in the legislative area by the American Association of Retired Persons and the National Retired Teachers Association. He also urged more political action by senior citizens.

Following Nash's address was a recount of benefits for senior citizens obtained through the Nixon Administration by Dr. Arthur Flemming. Flemming stated that senior citizens will receive $14½ billion more in federal funds this year than was received in 1970. Though he said he was aware that certain groups felt Congress was more responsible for this legislation than President Nixon, he stated that he was not interested in debates and, "The important thing is that these things have been done."

Roskens Happy With Construction Budget

Chancellor Ronald Roskens said he was "very, very pleased" with the capital construction budget approved last week by the Nebraska Legislature. At a press conference held June 4, the chancellor announced plans for the 1973-74 budget.

At long last, students will have a new library. The $5.1 million library is to be located on the west side of the campus on the former sites of the Hymie Milder home and St. Margaret Mary Convent property. The present Administration Building will be turned over to the College of Arts and Sciences and the Gene Eppley Library will be renovated to house the administration.

In response to speculation that UNO would be opening a downtown campus, the Chancellor stated that the University would first use the $229,000 allocated for property expansion to purchase property located west of the campus. He stated that he did not know if the money allocated would obtain all of the desired property, but if this property and a downtown branch is obtained it would be "sufficient for the next decade."

The amount of $271,000 has been allocated for the air-conditioning, lighting, and improvement of the acoustics in the Fieldhouse. The budget allows for $274,000 to improve the existing football field. The chancellor emphasized that these areas will be used more for instructional purposes than for purposes of recreation.

The Chancellor also announced that bids may be taken this month for construction of the controversial classroom building. Though funds for the building were allocated more than a year ago, the proposed site was the object of much community and University dissatisfaction. Originally, the building was to have been constructed directly in front of the Administration Building. The building will be located near the northwest corner of the Administration Building facing Dodge Street.

The UNO program with the Air Force overseas may soon expand. The program will be extended to two bases in England. Plans for a program on a base in Greece are being discussed.

The Chancellor also spoke of the plans for the first seminar on the Soviet Union. Scheduled for this fall, the seminar will lead to three credit hours. The seminar will include eight lectures at UNO and culminate in a 10-day trip to Russia. Roskens and other faculty members will conduct the seminar.

Beers, Chrysler View New Student Orientation Plan

By Dave Priestler

As the first summer session gets underway, Dr. Ronald Beer, Vice Chancellor for Educational and Student Services, and Dr. James Chrysler, Acting Director of Orientation '73 are finalizing plans for the comprehensive Orientation-Registration program which will be utilized at UNO for the first time.

The new program appears to be a unique synthesis of ideas gleaned from programs implemented at other eastern and midwestern universities, research carried out to measure certain variables implicit within such programs, and the careful forethought of those administering the Orientation program.

Dr. Beer remarks, "I have great confidence that the establishment and implementation of the new student orientation program will provide a much more comprehensive understanding of the services provided by, and the expectations of, the university. We anticipate it to be very helpful in orienting the new students to an environment to which they were previously unaccustomed." Dr. Beer also stated that the response of the University community toward the program is favorable.

"We hope to achieve certain individual student and university goals through the implementation of this program," reports Dr. Chrysler. "These are: A reduction in the rate of attrition among new students, a reduction in the number of change of program requests, an increase in the willingness of students to participate in campus activities, and the establishment of more efficacious academic career goals. We hope to do this by stressing those principles of orientation which assist the student in becoming introspective, evaluating where he is, and where he is going educationally and environmentally. This process of identification and self explanation should make the new student's position in the University more secure and his success more possible."

Two of the basic principles of the program are social modeling and peer association. These principles assert that many behaviors are learned more readily and effectively by following esteemed, available social models and that positive behaviors established in this manner are perpetuated through human feed-back.

Primary reliance for the implementation of these principles will be upon 23 current UNO students who have been selected as student leaders for the program which represents a new thrust in University administration. Dr. Chrysler has meticulously pieced together an intensive and comprehensive training program for the student leaders who will bear a large responsibility.

The training began May 15 when Mr. Don Davis, Regional Associate of American College Testing, met with the student leaders and covered the most effective methods and techniques of using ACT test data and student profile section information in assisting

Welcome From The Staff

The editor and staff of the summer Gateway welcome all of you and hope your summer experience at UNO will be one you'll always remember.

Now that we're through with that drivel, let's get down to the basics. The summer Gateway will operate on a number of assumptions, the first of which is that this is a publication for and by students. Its first and foremost aim is to keep you informed of campus events and issues that pertain to you as students and taxpayers of this public institution. Students united can be a powerful force in the political arena. Our job is to inform you; yours is to be an active citizen. In a sense, this paper is dedicated to the motto which appears on the north entrance of our state capitol: "The salvation of the state is in the watchfulness of the citizens."

The Gateway is supported through the use of student fees and advertising revenue. As a student-funded publication, it is unique among newspapers. "He who pays the piper plays the tune." The Gateway welcomes and encourages participation from the student body. Guest editorial space will be provided for those who have opinions on issues that affect the UNO student.

We hope our readers realize that though their student funds are involved, it is often only through the support of our advertisers that we run eight pages instead of four. Your support of Gateway advertisers is essential.

Quite frankly, the editor and staff expect some static from various areas of the University. We have no intention of merely printing a public relations rag. We do, however, realize that as a University publication we have certain responsibilities. We view that responsibility seriously, yet we don't believe in representing anything that happens on this campus less than honestly. Your support in maintaining this aim will be appreciated. Remain ever-conscious that this is a country where freedom of speech is a basic right, not a privilege.

Summer is a time for fun. You'll see a great deal of it in the Gateway. Because we come out on Friday of each week, you'll be able to use the entertainment pages as your guide to weekend planning. Charbon will be back, bringing you the latest information on what's happening in Omaha theatre. Film reviews, book reviews, album reviews — even "drink" reviews — will all be found on the entertainment pages.

Most of us at the Gateway have been attending the University a good number of years. We know what it's like to try to graduate from this place. We know what it's like to subsist on a meager salary. We know campus security will consistently inflict deep and lasting wounds on your psyche and pocketbook. That is why humor will play a prominent part on the pages of the Gateway. Practically nothing is sacred around here. Laughter is one of the few trips around that doesn't cost money. Snicker and forget the sordid mess around you.

Finally, we present a staff that we feel is unparalleled anywhere. Your editor is a woman. The ad manager is black. The secretary is Jewish. The sports editor is a boot. The photographers are white males. One of our writers borders on senility. The columnist is insane.

Best wishes for the summer of '73.

DEAR MAMA: I am a typical UNO student. Everything about this place drives me crazy. As is everyone else here, I am intimidated every step of the way by the pedantic and cursory rules and regulations pertaining to every facet of UNO life. All of these numerous annoyances have caused me to affect many or all of the usual bad habits, i.e., gambling, drinking, smoking, and brawling. These, of course, are mild amusements generally attached to the collegiate mentality. But I am not a wealthy fellow and my habits have caused me to become beleaguered with debt. Each day as I drive to school I can fairly hear my creditors snapping their hungry and vicious jaws at the tread-bare rear tires of my '57 Buick Special. It's gotten so bad that I attend classes just to get out of the house. What can be done for me?

Usured at UNO

DEAR USURED: Stave off your competitors by promising to get a job. I would suggest that you visit the placement office and secure one of their dynamic positions with a progressive firm. By the time your creditors discover that you have a job, you will have been fired or the firm will have gone broke. This sequence of events can be repeated infinitely.

DEAR MAMA: In the fall of 1969 I signed up for Speech 486 for which I received an Incomplete. One year later I signed up for Sociology 435 for which I also received an Incomplete. One year after this I found that Speech 486 is actually Sociology 435. It appears they are cross-listed. The situation is complicated by the fact that I have registered for Psych. 412. Now I find that Psych. 412 is actually Speech 486. It appears they are cross-listed. What do I do now?

Dumbfounded at the Registrar's

DEAR DUMB: I suggest Philosophy 410, a course in circular logic.

DEAR MAMA: I am writing to you because your readership is in the millions. I sincerely hope that your readers will see themselves and mend their ways.

I began reading Gone With the Wind in 1938, at which time I also began my tenure at what was then Omaha University. Since that time, I have progressed to the third chapter of Gone With the Wind. In other words, Scarlett has not made it to the barbecue yet. I am not a stupid person and no doubt I would have finished this book had it not been for the rigors of my job. Daily — oh, yes, hourly — I am besieged with the mealy-mouthed questions of the student body. They pick on me just because I work at the Information Desk. Except for the public contact, I have always enjoyed my job. Because of the lenient pension program I will be eligible for retirement in 1980, at which time I will receive $35.75 monthly.

I only wrote this letter to unburden a problem which has long bothered me. Thanks for the chance to do so.

BABY JANE

p.s. It's doubtful that I'll ever finish the book. Can you tell me if there's ever been a movie?

DEAR BABY: I sympathize with you but I cannot understand your haste to read Gone With the Wind.

Got a problem? Send it to Mama, Gateway Office, Engineering 116.

Orientation

UNO students. The next step for the student leaders will be a 45 hour work week which will begin Monday.

While training the student leaders Dr. Chrysler is concurrently developing an innovative and multi-faceted Personal Plan and Record Book which will enable the new student to keep a complete record of his or her educational experiences, as well as an orientation program for parents.

When asked if there have been any problems with the program, Dr. Chrysler reported that the mandatory nature of the program was initially subject to controversy. "After consulting with individuals representing both academic and educational and student services, the decision was made that all new and transfer students would be required to participate in the orientation, advising, and registration program. Evidence indicates that in optional programs, those students who need orientation the most do not participate."

"The printed word can only relate the mechanics of an effective program. It wasn't until I actually visited another university and talked with the students and administrators that I was able to perceive the enthusiasm which such a program conveys," said Dr. Chrysler. After speaking with Dr. Chrysler it seems he has successfully conveyed the same enthusiasm to UNO.

Student Senate Approves Four Parker Appointees

UNO's new student government administration, under the leadership of President Dave Parker, has been re-organizing in the last month.

The Student Senate approved appointments to four cabinet-level positions at the May 3, 1973 meeting. Greg Blodig will serve as executive coordinator, Bill Maddocks will be executive treasurer, Bill Hess is the new election commissioner, and Steve Seline will fill the newly-created position of public relations coordinator.

At the May 3 meeting the Student Senate also approved reappointment of Dave Priester as Director of the Academic Resources Center and the selection of 21 students to fill key committee assignments.

The Budget Commission will be chaired by Bill Maddocks and include Tony Cicco, Rande Sederstrom, and Kim Schlitz. The Election Commission will include Michele Fisher, Dan Haley, and Lou Soukup with Bill Hess as chairman.

Tom McCormick, Bobbi Micka, Kris Grady, Jim Nicas, Ken Liesche, and Lang Anderson were appointed to the Legislative Liaison Committee. The Regents Advisory Board representatives for UNO are Greg Blodig, Jim Grundy, Michele Fisher, Lang Anderson and Debbie Magee.

Also ratified by the Student Senate were the appointments of Darell Wold to the Student Court and Mike Braunstein as the Director of the Electric Window. Parker has also filled positions on Task Force Committees for the study of the educational mission of the university. These committees will evaluate different areas of the university and report directly to President D. B. Varner. Appointed to the committees were: Improving Quality of Teachings, Jim Frazier, Sandy McAdams, Sue Greco; Academic Organization, Rande Sederstrom, Tom McCormick; Student Retention, Dave Priester, Elizabeth Swanson, Josephine Allen; Improved Understanding of Learning Process, Nancy Olbreg, Carol Strother; and Curricular Review, Jeff Renner and Kris Grady.

Doctorate Is Awarded To Harry Duncan

Harry Duncan

UNO journalism professor Harry Duncan was awarded the honorary doctor of humane letters degree from his alma mater, Grinnell College, in Grinnell, Iowa, May 23, 1973.

Though nationally known for his work with hand printing processes and his knowledge of typography, Professor Duncan's career has been a multi-faceted one. Not only is he a poet, but he has also written libretto for opera. He has also studied acting, dance and voice at the Neighborhood Playhouse School of Theatre, New York.

At UNO, Professor Duncan directs a unique publishing enterprise involving hand-printed and hand-sewn books. The enterprise deals mainly with the printing and publishing of limited first editions. He works with a hand press which is one of 18 of its kind in the nation and among the first of its kind in Nebraska. The press is used to print and publish graphic and literary works and serves as a laboratory for students who work with handmade paper, choose their own type, and design covers and illustrations.

Professor Duncan was a member of the University of Iowa journalism faculty from 1956 to 1972. Since 1956 he has been a judge of the typographical excellence and typographical improvement awards of the Iowa Press Association and Southern Books Competition. He is a member of the American Institute of Graphic Arts and the American Benedictine Academy.

UNO Women Finish Seventh In College Softball World Series

By Kevin Carolan

The University of Nebraska at Omaha Women's Softball Team ended their 1973 season with a seventh place finish in the Women's College World Series held at Dill Field.

The Women's College World Series was initiated five years ago in Omaha and has been held here ever since. Connie Claussen, coach of the UNO Mavericks, was one of the initiators of this event which has grown to a field of 16 teams. The women's softball program has been on the upswing and a recent ruling regarding the recruitment of women softball players has given it a shot in the arm. The Association for Inter-collegiate Athletics for Women is now allowing colleges and universities to have a recruitment program and offer scholarships. The effect this will have on the UNO gals will not be known until this fall.

In opening day competition, the University of Kansas came from behind to edge the UNO gals, 4-3, in extra innings. Nebraska's other representative, Wayne State, fell twice in the second day of play after winning its opening game, 3-1, over South Dakota State.

The Maverick squad retaliated for two victories in the second round of competition. Sparked by Deanna Grindle's home run, double and single, the UNO gals dumped South Carolina 8-4, and edged Michigan State 7-6.

In what was to be the final game of the season for UNO, the Mavericks were stopped by a tough Western Illinois squad, 3-1.

The Mavericks wound up with a 9-3 regular season mark and were 11-5 overall. The team was led throughout the season by co-captains Tana Taylor and Deanna Grindle. Taylor led in batting with a .531 average over the regular season. Grindle was second with a .478 regular season average. Karen Peterson led in the RBI category with 16. Micki Gehringer was the leading pitcher for the Mavericks with an 8-3 record. Gehringer also had the teams third highest batting average, .450.

Herold Sets UNO Record

UNO second baseman Dave Ksiasek prepares to take a cut at the ball during the opening game of the District 11 NAIA Baseball Tournament. Waiting to catch the pitch is Dana catcher Mike Giovanni. Dana won the game 10-5.

A small contingent of UNO thinclads travelled to Arkadelphia, Arkansas during mid May to participate in the 1973 NAIA track and field championships.

Sophomore Lance Herold provided the only points for the Mavericks as he placed fifth in the two mile walk with a time of 14:51.0, establishing a new UNO record for that event. Herold also held the old record.

George Davis, UNO's 440 yard record holder, won his heat of the 440 yard dash on the opening day of competition with a time of 48.0. However, Davis suffered a disappointment in the semi-finals as he was disqualified for stepping on the line while running a 47.8 quarter.

John Hawkins, UNO's distance ace, was forced out of the marathon by blisters after 16 miles. Some 50 runners started the 26 mile 385 yard event but the heat and humidity forced over 20 of them to withdraw before the event ended.

The Mavericks' mile relay team ran the second fastest mile relay in UNO history but was nosed out of a spot in the finals despite its 3:14.6 clocking. Prairie View-A&M nipped UNO for third place with the identical time. Bill Woods (49.9), Gary Bragdon (48.7), Greg Rosenbaum (49.7) and George Davis (46.3) put it all together for their best performance this year. Davis's 46.3 split was the second best in the NAIA championship meet.

UNO SEVERS TIES WITH NAIA UNO Regains NCAA Membership

The University of Nebraska at Omaha took a gigantic step forward in updating its athletic program recently by its acceptance into the National Collegiate Athletic Association. Membership into the NCAA will become effective on September 1, 1973.

The return to the NCAA, however, has somewhat of a drawback dating back to 1961 when the old University of Omaha withdrew from the NCAA after being placed on probation for playing in Oklahoma City's All-Sports Bowl game. UNO will therefore be on probation for one year. The Mavericks, updating their athletic program in nearly all sports, will be ineligible for post-season individual and team competition in the NCAA during the 1973-74 season.

It appeared that UNO would have dual affiliations by belonging to both the NCAA and the NAIA. However, last week UNO Athletic Director Clyde Biggers made it known that UNO has dropped from the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics. The Mavericks will continue to schedule games with several schools from the Great Plains Athletic Conference, although they are no longer a member.

In other updating aspects of the athletic program at UNO, Biggers stated that UNO will not apply for any conference affiliation for some time. He stated the desire to utilize UNO's athletic potential as an independent. This question arose because of Memphis State's decision to withdraw from the Missouri Valley Conference, thus leaving an opening in that conference. Biggers reiterated that a "long searching look will be taken" before affiliation with any conference is made.

Intramural Sports News

The 1972-73 intramural sports program came to a close during the latter part of April and early May with the PIKES claiming the Sweepstakes trophy for the third straight year. Softball, Track and Field, and Golf closed the program with the following results.

No. 1	W-L	No. 2	W-L
1. PIKES	5-0	1. GENTS	5-1
2. LAMBDA CHI	5-0	2. THE PACK	4-2
3. THETA CHI	3-2	3. S. ROCKS	3-3
4. REEFERS	3-2	4. RAIDERS	3-3
5. SIG EPS	3-3	5. COLL. VETS	2-4
6. SIG TAU	1-3	6. LIT PIKES	2-4
7. TKE	0-4	7. IOTA DELTA	0-6

In the double elimination softball tournament held at Dill Park on April 28-29, the PACK emerged the winner in the two day marathon defeating the PIKES in the final game, 8-1. The PACK went all the way in the winners bracket, including a 7-4 win over the PIKES. The PIKES in turn fought their way through the losers bracket, winning four straight games, including an 8-6 win over the PACK in the playoffs, setting the stage for the final "if" game.

GOLF

The PEN & SWORD duo of Craig Saunders and Jim Vollgura led the "boots" to 1st place in the Intramural Golf Tournament. Saunders led with a 34 while Vollgura shot a 35.

TRACK & FIELD

In the final intramural event of the 1972-73 season the WRECKING CREW ran away from the field in the outdoor track and field competition, scoring 106 points. Runner-up with 43 points was LAMBDA CHI. The "boots" from the PEN & SWORD finished in third place with 33 points. Bill Walker led the WRECKING CREW equalling the record in the high jump with a leap of 5' 10". Walker also placed second in the long jump and ran a leg on both the shuttle hurdles and 880 relay teams which placed second and first respectively. Randy Lecuona (LAMBDA CHI) was the big point man for his team winning the triple jump with a leap of 40' 3", placing second in the high jump and third in the long jump. He also ran a leg on the shuttle hurdle relay which placed first in 51.6. Final team standings: WRECKING CREW 106, LAMBDA CHI 43, PEN & SWORD 33, ROAD RUNNERS 26, INDEPENDENTS 17, PIKES 15.
